A DROP OF INK

The postwar rush and expansion programs which struck the nation's educational system is still continuing at SMC, contrary to many previous predictions.

many previous predictions. Building projects and improvements have increased rather than decreased in the past two years. Despite the fact that the GI bill of rights has terminated, which cuts off educational aid to veterans, the current freshmen class has not suffered from lack of members.

With SMC verging upon its first full year of accreditation, Collegedale is anticipating larger graduating classes composed of a fuller representation of the offered curricula.

The ACCENT staff welcomes the freshmen class and all new students to enjoy the prosperity and bright future of Southern Missionary College. fg

14 Complete Work Field School

Fourteen students enrolled and com leted the courses of the field school of -evangelism this summer, reports E. C. Banks, director of the effort.

The meetings were climaxed when wenty-one new members were baptized and one joined by profession of faith to form a new Johnson City church. Fittingly enough, the charter members moved into a new church building, erected by the assistance o field school students.

The fourteen upper division stu-dents were able to gain practical ex-perjence along with theoretical train-ing during the twelve weeks spent in study.

Four teachers composed the faculty and staff. The courses taught totaled twelve hours and included five classes: ablic evangelism, pastoral metho medical evangelism, ancestry of the English Bible, and evangelistic and church music.

A DROP OF INK ...

As I sit here thinking of what I should put in printer's ink, I can hear my watch ticking the seconds of time away_five seconds, ten seconds, fifteen seconds—and time slips on.

Each second it ticks away is gone-lost in a mass of eternity. That second never came before; it will never come again; it is now! Did I say now? No, by now it has passed out of existence along with several other seconds.

We realize as we see these golden moments roll by that there is work to be done. There is studying to do. There are plans to be made-not tomorrow, not yesterday, but today. There is work to he done now.

Riches are not required in proving a success. But to show how valuable time is let us compare the accomplishments of the millionaire and the beggar. They both have the same time. It is the use of this time that makes such a difference.

The kind words we can speak, the helpful deeds we can do, the hearts we can point to Christ, these if not done now cannot be done later. The soul that is yearning for an act of kindness, for tender words, needs these now. Tomorrow it may be too late.

Tick, tick, tick, tick. During this week of prayer I have realized more than ever that the hour is growing late. There is not much time left. It is now time to get ready. It is now time to give our hearts to the One who can cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

As the seconds slip away as you read this let us ponder these questions: Am I using this time which God has given me to improve myself? Am I using this time to bless others? Am I using this time tn glorify the Supreme Giver? Am I capturing these fleeting moments, or am I losing them forever?

Has There Been A Change?

Today is Columbus Day. Four hundred fifty-nine years ago a demoralized, disconsolate, disheartened crew of Spanish sailors landed on an unknown island. Four hundred fifty-nine years ago an unknown hemisphere opened it's shores to a new civilization, a new era, and a new life.

From this single voyage exploration spread north, west, and south, pushing steadily, searching continually, and establishing a new heritage in a new land.

Our patriot land has grown since then. Four hundred fiftynine years of progress have developed this land into a continentwide, hustling nation of 150,000,000 people. But it was not in the explorers' attitude of greediness for gold and glory which caused our principles of democracy and freedom to be established. Their greedy hearts could not conceive of love and equality.

It was the cluster of self-denying, self-disciplined men of lofty ideals of nearly two centuries ago that laid the fundamentals by which we live. And now it seems that the greed that characterized the early explorers again has seized the first place in the citizens' hearts. At the close of this week of prayer, it may be well to rememher that the best citizen of America was-and always will be-the one without greed-the Christian citizen. fg

It has been said that "a little learning is a dangerous thing It can be said with equal trueness, that "much learning is also a dangerous thing" unless it includes spiritual knowledge of God and His plan of salvation. Knowledge, plus God, is power for good, but knowledge minus God, is a dangerous thing.

At Southern Missionary College the hand, the head and the heart are trained to function in unity for the glory of God. Your college is the result of hard work, much prayer and great faith in the Giver of all good gifts. The founding fathers had great vision and by the grace of God the enterprise is progressing grandly. My prayer is that this progress shall continue, widening and deepening as time goes on.

A DROP OF INK ...

As we entered into November we entered into a month that traditionally is cold, dreary, and bleak-in weather, surroundings, and spirit.

October brings us with its bright leaves of red, orange, and Octoper prings us with its pright leaves of red, orange, and yellow the beauty of old age, the beauty of death. But we see in November the leaves dying, turning into drab colors of brown and grey, falling off, being trodden under foot and beaten by cold wind and rain.

A tinge of melancholy settles down upon the world of Col-legedate. Those friendly smiles turn to frowns as the routine of school life inherits a bit of monotony and the feats and doubts of mid-semester examinations loom up now and then in the minds of those of foresight.

As the cold wind whistles through the skeletons of once lavishly-clothed trees, it gives a message of discouragement and foreboding.

We wonder: "Where are we going, anyway? Have we done the right thing in coming to Southern Missionary College? Are we going to get through the year financially, intellectually, and spiritually?

Three hundred and thirty-one years ago on a cold, dreary November day, a small band of common people seeking religious free dom landed on the bleak coast of Cape Cod. As they looked out over the harren shore thoughts, troubled thoughts, no doubt, came to their minds that they dared not utter.

"Where are we going? Have we done the right thing in leaving the mother country just to worship the way we want? Maybe our beliefs are peculiar and fanatical after all. Are we going to be able to provide for our families? Are we going to get through this year physically and spiritually?"

But a spark of hope lit up the scene. With perseverance and determination they did get through the year, thank God, and in appreciation of God's care, they initiated the first Thanksgivingyes, in November.

Let us cheer up. With the courage and faith of the pilgrims we can get through. Thanksgiving vacation will soon be here. Let us smile and by so doing rise above the discouragements of our troubles of worry that have never come and put our fellow man in like direction.

THE THANKSGIVING SPIR

Well, folks, Thanksgiving is here again. That isn't so to forget when you are going to school. I am afraid all it m to most of us is a vacation from school.

But let's think about the real reason we have a Thanksgi day. When the harvest was over and all was stored way, pilgrims set aside a certain day of the year when they could count all their blessings and see just how much God had he them. To this day this is just what we have been doing.

Every year we stop for a moment and consider how we we are. But is this really enough? There are many people in world and even in our own neighborhood who scarcely have enough to eat. We should find these people and share them. Here at Collegedale Academy our forum has thought plan so that each of us can help. Each class is preparing a basket to give to needy families at Thanksgiving so they happy, too. But unfortunately our efforts aren't enough. If et one would help in some way to make someone else happin real Thanksgiving spirit would manifest itself.

A DROP OF INK ...

Selfishness is the foundation of all unhappiness in the world. Egotism was the cause of the first sin in heaven, the first rebellion. Self-centeredness caused the first sin on earth, the fall of man. Con ceit is the root of the broken families which state of instability is tearing away the very foundation of our society. Selfishness or selfcenteredness is the prime source of mental illness today. Envy burst-ing forth from selfishness of countries is the basic cause of war.

In view of the great disturbance which selfishness causes, we may wonder why man continues to live in his own little hole. It has been said that self-preservation is the first law of nature. How true this is when its meaning is not perverted.

The greatest Teacher ever on earth, the Saviour of men, abided by their law in its proper aspect. He preserved Himself; He believed in self-preservation. He preserved Himself, with His Father's help, from sin and vice. He preserved His health in order to serve. He grew in knowledge and understanding not merely for self advanceent, not for egotistical achievement, not for worship of education but for the advancement of the kingdom of God, for the advance ment of the truth through which all men can be freed from their degraded death bound state. It can be said that he preserved Himself from self-preservation as it is thought of toda self-preservation in itself may mean selfishness. If so, it is not the first law of nature. Self-preservation for the benefit of others would be its opposite.

Many are the besetments of man that he struggles to overcome. But the greatest battle is with self.

The way, the only way, to win this battle with self is to follow in the steps one the One who has overcome before us. He lived for the service of others. He went about doing good. He would give a kind word, do a kind deed to cheer the depressed.

If we, like He, could acquire this working philosophy in life, the philosophy of service instead of SELF, we could change the world about us. Here at Collegedale we could change many frowns into smiles. We could change the whole life pattern of our fellows to their eternal benefit. We could lay the foundation for a happy home and family which may be ours in the future. We could acquire the peace and joy that Jesus came to give nineteen centuries ago.

Let us never forget as we study, work, and play that our educa-tion is for the "joy of service in this world and the higher joy of wider service in the world to come. Is

Ludington's Spend Eight Years of Mission Service in Burma

Two well-loved persons at Collegedale are Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Ludi ton, who, no doubt, are loved by many in Buema where they spent cight years of missionary work from 1914 to 1922. Mr. Ludington was the edu cational secretary of the Burma Union, superintendent of the Upper Burma mission and superintendent of the Meiktilla Technical School as well as being his own stenograper, bookkeeper and secretary.

The school was primarily for boys and of the 180 students which at-tended, nearly all of them were Bud-dist. During the Ludingtons' stay about forty boys were baptized, some of whom returned to their own native villages to work.

A DROP OF INK . . .

A new surge in traffic and safety precaution has marked this year from the preceding ones. Whereas a few "no parking" signs and yellow lines reminded drivers that safety was something desired: the new regulations, brillant stop signs, and pedestrain lanes remind Collegedale residents that safety is not only desired, but is desperately needed on our campus.

The latest addition to the growing list of precautionary measures is the junior patrol, composed entirely of grade school boys. These boys, who have complete control of the intersection at the north end of the men's dormitory, need cooperation and courtesy in thier work

When the pedestrian lane is congested with grade school children, and adults fail to recognize the authority of the junior patrolmen, it naturally follows that the children will also become negligent. Perhaps a stronger public interest can be manifest in this area. for a safety-conscious adult public can go far towards sumulating safety among these younger students. It my sare your child's life.

Kitchen Plans New Checking System

BARBARA ANDRESS

In a special committee held on January 9, a new plan was formulated to aid in the checking of trays in the dining room. This plan will be carried on for one week, beginning with the new semester, on a trial basis. The object of a new checking system to make the checking more accurate, the use of an automatic adding machine the possibilities of mistakes will be eliminated, thus safeguarding the students as well as the cafeteria.

Instead of the present set-up, there will be two tables. After the student has made his selection of food, he passes by the first table where his purchases will be totaled on the adding machine. He will then be given ticket which he is to give to the corder at the second table T The amount will be recorded and the ticket returned to the purchaser.

The special committee delegated to study the problems of the cafeteria included: Mr. Charles Fleming, col-lege business manager; Mrs. C. A. Williams director of tood services Dr. R. L. Hammill, co-ordinator of student activities; Margaret Motley, woman's forum president; Ed Bric, men's forum president; and Chester Jordan, student association president

20 Species Seen In Bird Census

A covey of Horned Larks of the specie Enemophili Alustris was observ-ed by the nature class as it made a census of the bird population on the census of the bird population on the Collegedate campus during the Christ-mas holiday. These larks, although plotteful in other parts of the country, are rarely seen in this area. Other birds listed in this survey numbered over 750 and included 20 different species.

The excursion started Christmas noming at Mr. George B. Dean's bome on Morningside Drive. There chickadees, cardinals, wrens, titmice, chickadees, cardmals, wrens, titmice, and even red-bellied woodpreckers were seen and enumerated. The walnut trees by the Brown House yielded a flock of blue jays, while many starlings and sparrows were futting about the dairy and farm buildings.

Down in the pasture it was almost impossible to court the myriads of meadow-larks, so an estimate was made of their numbers. There also was found of their numbers. There also was follow the ring-necked killdeer with its plain-tive cry. At the old quarry near the wood shop a northern slirike was seen, and the area beyond Lippman's house contained a flock of white-throated sparrows.

On the return trip bluebirds were perchang on the wires by the railroad track, and a flock of blackbirds fed noisily in the meadow.

Mr. Dean, the campus bird specialist, led out in the survey and was as-sisted by Mrs Bernice Baker and Alvin Galutia, students in the nature class.

This survey was made in connection with the Audubon Society of America and is a yearly, nation-wide event. The invitation to participate was extended to the biology department of SMC by Mr. Robert Sparks Walker, head of the Chattanooga chapter of the A.S.A.

A DROP OF INK ...

To say that one has good character usually means that he has good social qualities. One's character is made up of the little things he does or does not do, or the way he acts in emergencies. People judge his character by those little things, not by the big, showy things.

Often one's character is merely a reflection of the social attitudes and tendencies of his family and himself at home. Many great men are known by the big incidents in their lives, but truly great men are known more for the small, seemingly insignificant things. A few of the little things on which we can test ourselves are truthfulness, modesty, kindness, tolerance, and industry.

A man once approached Dwight L. Moody and asked for his definition of character. Moody thought a moment and then replied, "Character is what you are in the dark." Those eight words summed up a complete and concise definition of true character. Surely a real test of one's character comes when there is no one around to see.

Character is certainly important wherever one goes, and what-ever one chooses to do. "Reputation is what people think you are; si character is what you really are.

A DROP OF INK ...

Life is made up of a continuous series of partings and greetings: a series of giving-ups and acquiring. Some are happy; some, sad Some are for the good; some, for the bad. Some are necessary; some, unnecessary.

The baby must sooner or later part with his bottle to greet a glass; he must give up his rattle to acquire a pile of blocks. He must lose his play pen in order to expand his territory of recreation.

And after a few years the child must part with his mother a few hours each day to greet a new supervisor, his first grade teacher. He gives up to a certain extent his little sister as a playmate as he acquires a larger scope of playmates from the "gang" at school.

When the boy makes a transfer from the elementary to the secondary grades he must part with the one-teacher system and greet the many-teacher system. If he goes away to an academy he must part with his own family, to move into a larger family at a boys' dorm.

If from the academy he goes into a vocation, the boy must part with his books to greet his tools. He must give up a teacher to ac-quire a foreman; or if he goes into business for himself, to acquire a group of pleading customers.

The boy may go off to college where as he matures he will part with many of his preconceived ideas to greet a greater scope of knowledge. Perhaps at college he will part with a close circle of "pals" to acquire a mate.

And so it goes, from step to step, life is one continuous series of greetings and partings.

But the purpose of this editorial is not merely to display these common occurrences in life, important though they may be. Let us think of the one great parting of life and its opposite.

This parting is more important than any other parting or any phase of life. This parting arises from a necessity. It is a prerequiphase of life. It is parting artes rion a theorem, it en-site to eternal life. It is for the good of the one who parts, for it en-ables him to live more abundantly, it enables him to be free. And simultaneous with this parting is a greeting.

This greeting is as necessary as the parting. In fact, the parting is no good without the greeting. This greeting is for the good of the one who greets.

This great parting is the parting of a sinner with his sins, the parting of a man with the ways of the world. This great greeting is the greeting of the sinner and his Saviour. This is the happiest parting and the happiest greeting of life.

Another parting of life bears great weight. This parting is opposite to the one mentioned above. It does not arise from necess hut from neglect. It is not for the good of the one who parts, but for his eternal downfall.

As the other great parting, this is simultaneous with a greeting. The parting and the greeting go hand in hand. This parting is the parting of a Christian with his Saviour, a parting of a man with the ways of the upright. This greeting is the greeting of a man and sin, the greeting of a man with the arch deceiver. This is the saddest parting and greeting of life.

Yes, life is made up of a continuous series of partings and greetings: a series of giving-ups and acquirings. Some are happy; some, sad. Some are for the good; some, for the had. Some are necessary; some, unnecessary

May our parting of the last two be the happy one. May it be for the good. May it be the necessary one.

THE BETTER WAY

I'd rather see a section than hear one any day;

Ed rather one should with with me than merch show the way The eye's a better pupil and more willing than the ear; Fine counsel is confusing, but example's always clear And the best of all the preachers are the men who live their creeds For to see the good in action is what everybody needs. I can watch your hands in action, but your tongue too fast may run I can soon learn how to do it, if yon'll let nue see it done And the lectures you deliver may be very wise and true, But I'd rather get my lesson by observing what you do. For I may misunderstand you and the high advice you give, But there's no misunderstanding how you act and how you live. -AUTHOR UNKNOWN

DON'T GIVE UP: HIT IT AGAD

No one is licked until he gives up. Perhaps you have two little boys fighting. One boy may be on the bottom and able to move, but if he doesn't give up and keeps on fight may still win. When one is learning to swim, play tennis, o thing, it may look at times as though he can never learn; bu keeps at it, he is sure to learn. The same way in one's lessons physics is hard for you, maybe it's geometry or English and in that you just can't get your assignments and make the grade then try harder. No matter what you are doing, put all you into it. If it won't budge at first, hit it again and hit it harder

A DROP OF INK . . .

The Collegedale community has seen a decided trend recently in civic affairs. Last year the civil defense program included the medical cader corps, the civil air patrol, and community first aid classes

This year the safety committee has introduced stronger traffic and pedestrian regulations. Then a few weeks ago Collegedale organized Hamilton County's second junior chamber of commerce. What will be the next project?

For a long time Collegedale has needed a fire truck. A clumsy For a long time Congequate has needed a neerida. It could be a constructed by a group of panting, puffing boys with banged up shins is inadequate protection for the buildings at Collegedale. A large share of these buildings are old and dry. Some are not equipped with even a sprinkler system. A fire in Collegedale could have devastating effects.

Insurance rates are high at Collegedale; one reason is the lack of fire protection. A fire could inflict extensive damage before a truck from either Chattanooga or Cleveland could arrive on the scene. Property owners would certainly appreciate cheaper, but equally as good, insurance premiums.

Then there is the case of Apison, isolated from other towns because of no telephone service. Three of four miles drive to Collegedale for help is better than a longer drive to East Brainerd for the same purpose.

Also there is Ooltewah without a fire truck. What has been said for Apison can be repeated for Ooltewah. And there a numerous farmers in the near vicinity who would consider a fire truck a great asset to this territory. Can garden hose or bucket brigades insure sufficient protection to these three groups of people living outside of the Collegedale community?

Then there is the aspect of public relations with all these people not connected with the college or the SDA church. Why wouldn't a fire truck build better feeling among the three towns and surrounding country?

For a long time Collegedale has needed a fire truck. Let's acquire one before disaster claims its toll.

The Voice of Prophecy Bible course was finished in very little tune and Juan had given himself to Christ. Many problems arose to discourage Juan. The first was when Pedro was placed in pail. Later when he was given opportunity to be discharged from the army he was offered a great deal of money to stay in the service. Juan's parents needed financial help but he would not give in. Through it all he remained true to his conscience.

Discharged from Army

He was discharged and soon arrived home in Puerto Rico. All was well in the Rodriguez home. Their son was home again. He was born in 1919, the oldest of their cleven children. For his hone-coming his mother had prepared every thing he liked to cat, including a great variety of pork At the table he told his mother he At the table he told his mother he did not cat pork any more. His mother rose and asked, "What has happened to you? You have been absent for three and a half years, and now you come back and don't want to cat what I have prepared for you!"

Collegedale Leads Drive for A Million Enrollees in Bible Course

One million enrollers in the 20th Century Bible Correspondence course is the goal of E. L. Cardey, director of the school in Atlanta, and his corps of workers. The Atlanta school hopes to attain its goal by December 31, 1954. Leading the drive to enroll evaluation the course will be the Col. students in the course will be the Col-legedale church, which is now canvass-ing the Chattanooga area with enrollent cards.

A DROP OF INK ...

DEAR FELLOW STUDENTS:

As I told you in chapel last Friday we plan to produce the best annual in the history of SMC. I also told you it would be in your hands not later than Friday, May 16, 1952.

Your Southern Memories staff has worked very hard on this annual and we have much faith that you will do your part to help

However, our faith was greatly shaken last Friday when we received the total amount of forty-six (46) subs, nine of which were given by ny fellow staff members.

May I ask you students, do you want an annual? We have solicited more than $2,000 in advertisements. Shall we return this money? Is all of our time and effort meaningless to you?

I make this promise: if 50 per cent of the student body will get one (1) sub besides the one paid on the activity fee, I will get one hundred (100) subs personally.

Friends, if we printed this annual for your pleasure only, it would cost you not less than $6.60. We are happy to solicit ads so that you will pay only $3.00 per copy for your annual. Why not take two (2) annuals for $7.00. This is only $.40 more than you would pay if you were accepting the responsibility yourself. Let's get behind this, students. Let's show our school spirit.

Let's accept our responsibilities and carry our part of the load Thank you very kindly.

Very sincerely yours, DEWEY J. URICK, JR.

WFEK OF PRAYER didn't he?

A DROP OF INK ...

Spring with its tantalizing breezes, its warming sun, and budding verdure has come to Southern Missionary College. Nature is making a new try at life.

Simultaneous with this new evidence of life has come another life-reviving program, a spiritual change-the spring week of spir-itual emphasis. For one week, February 29 through March 8, Elder Andrew Fearing brought messages of hope, inspiration, and consecration.

"God and you are a dynamo;" "Meekness does not spell weakness;"-all week Elder Fearing electrified the student body with his sermons and illustrations.

Collegedale audiences learned quickly to appreciate their guest and they attended both the chapel and evening services peaker, in numbers that few programs exceed. Not to be forgotten in their share of the week's program are Elders Fenton E. Froom and Archa O. Dart, who directed the services for the academy and elementary school, respectively.

Collegedate will long remember this week of prayer and often give thanks for the ministry of their guest speakers. fe

A DROP OF INK ...

It is not the good beginner that makes success so much as the good finisher. Many things have been begun in the world but only a small per cent have been finished.

a small per cent have been infined. One can prepare a garden plot and plant seeds; but if he does not cultivate it, the garden will produce little. A good start has its place; it is important; but the finishing is what produces the goods.

Many gardeners may go as far as cultivation but when the harvest is ready, in laxity they let the fruits ruin in the field.

A Bible worker may give one or two Bible studies and quit. No souls are won this way. It is the worker that gives every study to the finish that receives that for which he strove.

Many young people start college, but only 40 per cent finish. Only 40 per cent reap the harvest; only 40 per cent receive the goal which they had visioned.

Most of the young people that drop out do so in their first year. It may be the result of discouragement. It may be the result of a financial problem or the result of a problem at home.

Yet, the sad cases are those who wait until the last hour, who wait until they have traveled the way almost to the finish line, who have sown the seed, cultivated the ground, but somehow do not reap the harvest of their education.

We have just passed the three-quarters mark for the year. Only one stretch to go. Most is behind us. Let us not give up the ship and fail now. Let us reap that which belongs to us.

College Day Again

As the clock on the wall slowly ticked off the minutes, days, and months, we again found ourselves nearing that day of days when we are privileged to join with senior academy students from all sections of the Southern Union.

Most of the students here at Collegedale are well acquainted with the College and its activities, but many of the visiting students were not. Each Collegedale Academy student was proud to do his part in making College Day a success by answering questions, showing people around, or just being friendly.

The nine weeks summer session of 52 at Southern Missionary College is scheduled to open Monday, June 16, and to close on Friday, August 15 The present prospect is that the attendance this summer will surpass the record of 224 who enrolled during the 1951 V/SNOR

Even more than for regular series turs for the school year, the summer offerings are designed to meet the special need of the student body atending Every year a canvass is made if those desiring summer work, and very effort is made to give the courses of tho desired On this account the summe session usually offers a full comple session usually oriers a run compac-ment of courses in education. Enough subjects are also offered in other lines to make it possible for beginning to make it possible for beginning freshmen, and others as well, to carry a program of nine semester hours, which is full work for a summer ses-

A DROP OF INK . . .

Glancing through the file of former issues of the SOUTHERN ACCENT, one can easily trace the progress of Southern Missionary College, both as a college plant and also as an institution fostering a wide area of student activity. The development in these two fields has heen nearly simultaneous. When on May 26, 1946, Collegedale graduated its first class of four-year seniors, SMC had experienced its highest enrollment in history.

Continuing its enrollment increase in 1946-47, SMC dedicated its new A. G. Daniels Memorial Library which gave the campus a much-needed and well-appreciated attraction. Within a few months the first student senate organized with thirteen members, which immediately formed committees to investigate and promote its business

From that date, college expansion featured a new science hall, tabernacle-auditorium remodeling, and industrial expansion. Within the same years, student activity settled into a period of development, quiet at first, but receiving its big push in 1949-50 when the student senate reorganized, hecoming the officers of a student association under a new constitution. fg

KEEP LOOKING UP

Keep looking up, not down at your difficulties. We all have obstacles in our way and somehow we must overcome them. If we try to surmount them all at once we will soon become discouraged and give up, but patiently overcoming them one by one we grow stronger and are hetter enabled to face the future with a smile.

The highest hill may be climbed by patiently ascending step hy step; the toughest job may be accomplished by continuous effort. The perfection of our lives is not gained in a day but by the patient cw work of a life time.

THE SOUTHERN ACCENT

A DROP OF INK ...

This issue of the SOUTHERN ACCENT writes the final page in SMC's 1951-1952 school year. With this last issue of volume 7 we who form the present staff extend our best wishes to all subscribers. We have endeavored to present the news as we saw it and convey to students, friends, parents, and prospective students factual stories, life, and events at SMC, which we are confident have been an accurate and distinct picture of Seventh-day Adventist education.

The faithful service of this year's staff which has made possible the SOUTHERN ACCENT has been greatly appreciated. Bearing a heavy share of the editorial duties has been Lynn Sauls. The column-Carol Jean Whidden, James Joiner, Elaine and Barbara Higdon, Bob Huey, and Marvin Rogers have brought to ACCENT readers the personal news of SMC's faculty and married and single students. The group of reporters who have attended meetings, interviewed people, and observed events to write news stories have ) formed the backbone of the staff.

The typists, Doris Marsh and Jackie Bennet, have rendered hours of exceptional service to keep the ACCENT on schedule, Charles Harris has handled the SOUTHERN ACCENT finances while Florence Rozell has spent countless hours in maintaining working order in the circulation files

It is our sincere hope that you readers have enjoyed following SMC's events as much as we have enjoyed publishing them for you; we hope that by reading the ACCENT you are better acquainted with the Seventh-day Adventist education which we have experienced. fg

Reminiscence . . . .

Our 1951-52 school year has drawn to a close, and with its close we are a step closer to our goal.

As we look over the past school year, we see many things have made deep impressions on our minds; picnics, programs, and classwork have all become a part of us.

It has been a great honor and pleasure to work with the ACCENT-ON-THE-ACADEMY staff this year. Next year I am sure another fine group will support the ACCENT. Have a good vacation!
